Week 12

March 20th brings the first day of Spring, and with it the anticipation of warmth and new growth. In preparation, I went outside last weekend to trim all my shrubs and the apple tree, and felt a twinge in my back all week leading to putting my back out completely on Thursday. I'm moving slowly at the moment, but taking advantage of some couch time, by prepping pieces for my mom's 1/2 scale version, so that she can sew ahead.
