My cold continued this week, with little change from the end of last week. Not much of a voice, constant cough, but no more runny nose. For those asking, yes, I tested, and do not have Covid. There has been a lot of upheaval in my personal life this last couple of weeks and I believe the added stress resulted in succumbing to this miserable cold.

I'm busy at home sewing on Argyle Rainbow for next year and will have more info for you as soon as I'm better.
